The state of WI currently allows big game hunting within high-fenced enclosures. These "canned hunts" have been perceived by many hunters and non-hunters as unfair or unethical. High fenced enclosures have also been associated with CWD, the importation of exotic game animals (which often-times escape) as well as troublesome law enforcement problems. Many of the timber companies in WI are in the process of selling off large tracts of land (which was previously open to the public) to private individuals. There are currently rumors and possibly negotiations underway to place high fences around thousands of acres of this land which was previously open to the public.

~~Some of these individuals are trying these~~

Some of these individuals are out-of-state residents seeking to create fenced enclosures similar to the situation in Texas. Creating high fenced enclosures around thousands of acres of land will restrict the natural movements of game animals and also restrict the movement of game onto the properties of hundreds of adjacent land owners

Be it resolved that all hunting within high fenced enclosures be made illegal in the state of WI
