Hello,

The way in which Foxconn will be procuring water from Lake Michigan is a clear example of a legal loophole being exploited in an unethical manner. There are laws in place to protect the lake as a precious resource, and Racine should not be complicit in such an egregious act of neglect and disdain for such an important thing as the lake. Allowing Foxconn to draw this much water from the lake is bad for the ecology of the Great Lakes and a bad investment for the future.

Thanks,
Frankie
