Subject:	Deny Foxconn Diversion Request

To whom it may concern:

Over 40 million people rely on the Great Lakes for drinking water and the Great Lakes represent a precious water resource. It was for this reason that Great Lakes Compact was formed.

I worry the Foxconn diversion jeopardizes the sustainability of Lake Michigan and violates the primary tenet of the Great Lakes Compact: that the Compact bans on diversions except in rare and unique instances. First, the Foxconn facility is not in the Great Lakes Basin and should require a review by the Regional Body. Second, the water is not being diverted for public consumption as required by the Compact. Third, nearly half of the diversion would be lost to the manufacturing process. Lastly there is insufficient information about how the water will be used, treated, or managed.

Please protect Wisconsin's largest water resource and deny Foxconn's diversion request.

Sincerely,

Josh Pollack
