After attending and listening to the many intelligent speakers brought to Cartage College for the series on Foxconn, I now clearly see that history will prove this project to be a multi-directional failure to the tax payers, the community and the environment. Some of the sharpest minds brought out the history of Foxconn in its failures in its multinational locations. Please be aware of the looming problems you will need to answer to this generation as well as your children if you allow this project to be pushed through at the fever pace initiated by the governance of this state.
Please, address the water consumption[7 million gal.], the return of its by-product into one of the largest bodies of fresh water in the world. The size of the facility, combined with the parking surface and the impermeable area of this hardscape will create major runoff issues. This, plus the additional feeder road surface and 'outside' development being built will only increase flood risk.
We the taxpayers of this state do not want to take on a politicly generated short-sited adventure that will have long lasting repercussions.

Mike Breen.
