To whom it may concern -

I am writing today to express concern over Foxconn's request for water from the Great Lakes. Only 1 percent of Great Lakes water is actually renewable every year by rain and snowmelt, so we need to be really careful about how much we are taking out.

The city of Racine is requesting to divert up to an annual average of 7 million gallons of water a day in the straddling community, the village of Mount Pleasant. The math doesn't add up.

The Great Lakes are an important water system to Wisconsin and surrounding states. I am very concerned and am asking the DNR to deny the application as it stands today.

I am all for business coming into Wisconsin - for the economy and jobs it can create. But not at the cost of The Great Lakes.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Shay Sherfinski
