To whom it may concern,

I write to you today to express my opposition of the proposed water diversion for Foxconn. You have undoubtedly heard every emotional plea imaginable. I would agree with most of them I'm sure. This scenario has the making of an environmental apocalypse, we should not gamble with 90% of North Americas fresh water. Lake Maracaibo in Venezuela comes to mind as an example of the road we are going down.

All logic and emotions aside, this proposal violates The Great Lakes Compact as it would be for personal use, not private. The application is also incomplete, as the figures give are estimates. There's no way of determining the impact of the diversion without concrete numbers.

I attended the public hearing in Sturdevant, you have heard it all. I'm sorry you have to be put in this position. I'd like to retain my faith in humanity, please deny this application! Thank you for your time, Stacey Andersen LAc
