Dear Wisconsin DNR,

I am a resident of Illinois, and care about of the water usage request by Racine and Foxconn. With millions of people relying on Lake Michigan for water, the concern is more for the condition of the returned water. How will that be monitored, substances detected -probably ones that Wisconsin is not familiar with, and training and technology to accomplish this are all questions. These issues need careful consideration to protect our vital drinking water for generations to come.

Please do not rush this important decision. We need to make sure this is a safe endeavor for all.
Many thanks,
Barbara Rosborough
