I am a student at Harborside Academy. For the past year we have been studying water scarcity around our area.

Here in Wisconsin we have Lake Michigan, but it's water isn't an infinite source. Foxconn is going to take almost 8 million gallons of water a day and only giving back around 6 million keeping about 2 million gallons a day in their cooling towers, which will most likely evaporate. That defies the Great Lakes Water Compact as stated by Jodi Habush Sinykin an attorney at Midwest Environmental Advocates. The Great Lakes Compact section 4.9.1 states that "all water shall be used solely for the public water supply within a straddling community." Foxconn stated," Racine will use the majority, if not the entirety, of the Diverted Great Lakes Water to serve the industrial needs of a single, private, foreign industrial entity." That defies the compact that protects our water. The biggest question I have is why would we defy something that we put together, as well as what will our government do to make it up.

Thanks for your Time.
