Conservation Congress Resolution
April 16, 2007

The turkey hunting license process is flawed. Not all turkey hunters that which to hunt get tags in their zones but yet you can still purchase those tags later in the year. We know the turkey population has greatly risen in the last 20 years.

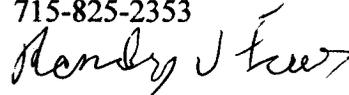

The turkeys are beginning to do significant crop damage to farmer's crops.

The hunter's that which to hunt should be allowed to hunt.

Be it resolved, the Conservation Congress at its annual meeting held in Polk County on April 16, 2007, recommends that the Department of Natural Resources take action to correct this situation by eliminating the December 10th lottery system for turkey permits, and turkey permits would go on sale February 1st for all turkey hunters. Hunters would be allowed two (2) turkeys, one per day; and would be allowed to hunt any of the six spring seasons.
