White tail deer Education

The white tail deer is Wisconsin's sought animal for food and recreation. Hunter Education covers the harvest and handling of deer after is harvested but very little about the needs and the life of a deer is covered. Hunter Education classes do not have time to teach things about deer and their habitat. There is not any time in Hunter Education classes to thoroughly cover what is important to students and is needed to teach about the respect and protect this animal. There should be a booklet created covering the habitat, possible diseases, protection, and RESPECT of this animal. We are seeing young people shooting deer with spotlights as a "thrill" event. This has to be stopped. Education is the answer,

Be it Resolved, The Wisconsin DNR work with Hunter Education Coordinators, biologists, and other appropriate people to create and publish and distribute a booklet about the deer and its life.
