Wisconsin Conservation Congress Mission

The Wisconsin Conservation Congress is the only statutory body in the state where citizens elect delegates to advise the Natural Resources Board and the Department of Natural Resources on how to responsibly manage Wisconsin’s natural resources for present and future generations. The Congress accomplishes this through open, impartial, broad-ranged actions.

Get involved!

- Represent the interests of the citizens in your county:
  — Become a Congress delegate.
- Provide input on issues of concern to your local delegates.
- Attend your local Spring Hearing and vote on proposed rule changes and WCC advisory questions.
- Present an idea for change through a citizen resolution.

Become a part of the process!

History

In 1934, lead UW professor Aldo Leopold, Chief Warden Harley Mackenzie, and Superintendent of Game William Grimmer formed the county-based system of citizen involvement we know as the Wisconsin Conservation Congress (WCC). In 1971 the Wisconsin Legislature gave formal recognition to the Conservation Congress County Meeting, which is held annually in conjunction with the DNR Fish and Wildlife Spring Hearings. Each of the 72 counties have five delegate seats on the WCC for a total of 360 delegates. Based on their interests and knowledge, delegates are selected to represent the citizens of their district on WCC study committees which examine a broad range of resource management issues. We need a diverse group of delegates to provide input on these areas so we can fulfill our statutory duty to advise the Natural Resources Board on all issues under its jurisdiction—from the management of fish and wildlife game species to environmental concerns and everything in-between.

Delegates

Citizens in each county have the opportunity to elect delegates to represent their interests in natural resource management at the Conservation Congress County Meeting, which is held annually in conjunction with the DNR Fish and Wildlife Spring Hearings. Each of the 72 counties have five delegate seats on the WCC for a total of 360 delegates. Based on their interests and knowledge, delegates are selected to represent the citizens of their district on WCC study committees which examine a broad range of resource management issues. We need a diverse group of delegates to provide input on these areas so we can fulfill our statutory duty to advise the Natural Resources Board on all issues under its jurisdiction—from the management of fish and wildlife game species to environmental concerns and everything in-between.

Our Purpose

We are an avenue for the Natural Resources Board and the Legislature to gather public input, and we frequently provide representation on Department of Natural Resources' committees. We are also part of the administrative rule-making process here in Wisconsin, collecting public input, studying problems, and proposing solutions.

Wisconsin Conservation Congress

“The vision of the Wisconsin Conservation Congress is to strengthen and enhance our ability to gather and convey the wisdom and influence of Wisconsin citizens in the formation of natural resource policy, research, education, and conservation.”
