

Fall Program Started

With the coming of winter more and more boys are turning their attention and spare moments to the educational program now under way.

Besides the regular Key Position class conducted every Wednesday night by the officers, several other courses have recently drawn the attention of a large number of enrollees. The courses conducted by Helman and Eagles should prove of benefit to everyone taking them. The courses are Electrical Wiring and Shortwave Radio. Both are well versed in their line and considerable equipment has been procured.

Stauber and Butler are conducting their nightly courses in Typing, Leathercraft, Book Keeping and Elementary Subjects.

It is the objective of Mr. Kennedy, the educational adviser, to get every man in camp interested in some line and place him in some course. The courses that are offered will greatly profit the man who avails himself of them in later life. Let's cooperate and get a hundred percent educational program.

Reading Record

Most of the men in the camp are not using the library as much as they could. Improve upon what you already know by plenty of way, Thomas M. King holds the record for reading books. He has read nearly ten books this month. Keep up the good work Tommie.

Library Painted

The library underwent some changes during the last week and a half. The walls were painted an ivory color. The woodwork is to be painted a dark blue. It is also the aim of Lt. Ruhe to acquire more furniture and better lighting fixtures.

Additional Books

There are nearly one hundred new books from which to choose in the library. Avail yourself of this splendid opportunity to enjoy reading these long winter months.

Quiet Please

Remember the library is a place of quiet. Respect the other fellow's rights and be as quiet as possible in the library.

Courtesy

There is sometimes a lack of courtesy in camp. Remember that courtesy is the mark of a gentleman—a desirable title at all
