

The Town of Washburn

By Linda Davis

Our favorite town

Murals on brick walls of local businesses offer a story of the cities history.

In search of a good meal after days of hot dogs on the campfire we find a small town restaurant, "The Steak Pit".

Ignoring the magnificent smell, we stop for a moment to capture a photo of the numerous sailboats parked at the dock nearby, glistening in the evening glow.

Was my delusion of reminiscing days in Sausalito, CA a result of my hunger or the beauty of the sails? My stomach was unhappy for a moment, but my eyes were amazed.
