

Citizen Resolution # 410822

(For Hearing Officer completion)

Changing dates for open water duck season

Open water duck season is still way too early for Southern Wisconsin duck hunters. We typically don't see divers until mid November and they stay until February. I would like to propose a later start date or a split in the season to make a 1 week hunt from Christmas to new year. (Holiday hunt)

Would you be able to set the open water duck season to a later date or make a split in the season.

Additional Information provided by author:

From my own experience and from dnr fly over data ducks in green bay (openwater) are in great numbers in November. In October theirs mostly ducks on the shoreline (like redheads). I have seen large flocks of ducks in lake Michigan, Milwaukee area, as late as February.
