

Meet Elmer The Hick
by
Pat Shields

Wallace Siedschlag, our yodeling hill-billy from Pond du Lac, Wis., is fast making a career for himself.

Wallace recently completed a course in Dynamic Tension. Thanks to this course, Wallace has muscles of iron and nerves of steel. He can even whip a five year old kid with his bare fists.

Wallace is like all young men. Now that spring is here, Wallace has turned his fancy to love.

While out on a date with his life-g-love, Wallace forsook her soft arms for the arms of Morpheus.

Mr. Siedschlag is also an accomplished drummer. At night one can hear Wallace pounding away to the tune of some wild Scottish Airs.

In appearance he makes a striking picture. He is always faultlessly dressed. His patent-leather hair is brown and wavy. His piercing steely blue eyes are sheltered by pino nez spectacles, which make him look spectacular. We will cease to describe Mr. Siedschlag to you as it is necessary to meet him personally to appreciate his Spartan qualities.

Meet The Log-Rolling
Celebrity

Mr. J. Stauber, PWA teacher at our camp has ascended the ever-head at Camp Crivitz. Having related his experiences in the art of birling to a few of us, Williams, Ass't Ed. Adv. has decided to take a few lessons in the art of log-birling. Williams hopes after a few lessons to surpass his teacher.

Born in a little log-thatched hut, on a log raft, Joe was brought up on a log and pike-pole. After fourteen years of swirling up and down the Menomonee River on a log with a peavy, Joe has surpassed all competitors in trick and fancy rolling.

Our Southern Hill-Billy

(Simon Symens), the well known guitarist is at present in Camp Crivitz. He is recovering from a nervous breakdown. "Sing Song" of the West. Where men are men and women are glad of it. Mr. Symens "pan" portrays an extensive amount of emotional simplicity. Sometimes he amuses me with his individual intelligence. I personally wish he would sing "Far Out on the Prairie" as far out as he can get. The reason for the song above is, when you look into his "map" you see nothing but the wide open places. He is also an accomplished carpenter. I don't know what he ever accomplished but that is OK Don't Laugh you may be next.

BE BEAUTIFUL AND CHARMING
