

Frozen Fun

By Karen Gersonde

Winter in Wisconsin,
Cold and white,
Lakes are frozen, blue/green ice.

Wind whips around on the frozen ground,
Snow dances up and around.

Fishermen huddle over holes in the ice,
Hoping to catch fish that are plump and nice.

Sleek ice boats race like a bird on the wing,
Across glistening lakes...such excitement it brings.

Other boats are dry docked, covered in snow,
Waiting for spring to get out and go.

People stroll frozen shores, gaze in awe,
At the beauty of nature of ice not yet thawed.

Seagulls and ducks swim in open water they find,
Looking for handouts from people that are kind.

Wisconsin waters are so beautiful when frozen,
They are yours for the taking... for you the chosen!
